The L. T. L. met Tuesday afternoon at the Congregational Church with Ruth Brown as secretary. After the devotional exercises the leader told two stories at the story hour and Mrs. Ellen R. Smith talked to the children on "Our Treatment of the Indians." Seven members were present.

Proud Of Our Progressive Packer

Cannery a Human Hive of Industry

The biggest packing concern and one that is just cause for community pride in this part of the valley is the J. C. Ainsley Packing Co.

Under the direct supervision and direction of Mr. Ainslev the business has grown from a small building on Santa Clara road in 1891 to one of the best and most modern canneries in Santa Clara valley.

Mr. Ainsley has made enlargements and added improvements almost every year since the small beginning, until the plant now occupies all the track space between Campbell and Foote avenues and all the block except two residences. A large storage warehouse has been built on the east side of the S. P. tracks and for the past few seasons it has been necessary to rent outside storage.

The cutting and packing departments have been enlarged to almost double last season's capacity and new automatic capping machines having been added in the cooking department where also new cookers have been installed.

The main warehouse has been doubled in capacity and indications now point to a still broader expansion of every department of the plant in the near future.

A new modern pealer and sorter is being installed to take care of this season's fruit which is due next week.

Mr. Ainsley recently purchased several lots on the west side of Harrison avenue including the Coffee Club where he conducts an employee's cafeteria that the help may get their meals at cost. A well attended kindergarten is conducted at the welfare and rest room with an ideal play ground on the lot.

The payroll, the largest in our community, runs near the 500 mark bringing in a number of outside workers during the busy season.

The Ainsley cannery enjoys a long season making a post-season pack of fancy salad for export trade.

Such an institution is the support and livelihood of many of our good townspeople who in turn are proud of its growth and product.

Mr. Ainsley himself always to the front in civic improvement and progress is ever watchful for the welfare of his help and has made for himself many staunch supporters among the fruit workers.

"I will sing praises"

As one of those who attended the organ recital and "community sing," at the Congregational Church last Sunday evening. I wish to express my pleasure in the meeting, and to add to that, my hope that the service will not only be repeated next Sunday evening, but will become a regular feature of our community life, at least during the summer season.

The Sabbath evening "sing", of which the grand old hymns and anthems of the church are made the centre, brings to many of us an echo of the old home back East, with its family and neighborhood gatherings in the summer twilights. A community such as ours is like one big family, and we cannot overestimate the value of good music to it. Neither can we say too much in appreciation of those who are willing to give their services to make such meetings a success.

The singing, led by Mr. H. C. Smith was spontaneous and earnest, a beautiful reverence pervading its whole, as all present joined in the words of the old hymns, and patriotic songs. Mr. F. M. Bryan, organist from Upland, Cal., accompanied on the piano, with a sure practiced touch that did much to make this part of the service a success.

The organ recital by Mr. Bryan was greatly appreciated, especially as being the gift of one who is a stranger among us. The selections were varied and beautiful, and played with an artist's touch.

A few quiet words by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Preston, reminding all of the possibility of walking in ways of harmony during the busy week to follow, carrying the music in our hearts, fittingly closed this beautiful and helpful service.

Next Sunday evening a similar service will be held to which all are cordially invited.—Ann Listner.

Auto Injures Two

Miss Ruby Reynolds and Mr. Thos. Rainey were struck by an auto while walking on the highway on East Campbell avenue Tuesday evening.

Miss Reynolds received a few scratches and bruizes on her lower limbs but will be about again in a few days when she recovers from the nervous shock. Mr. Rainey was badly hurt across the back and a blow on the back of the head caused a hemorrhage altho examination showed no fracture of the skull.

The accident occurred just East of the bridge when Ted Smith who was dazzled by the lights of Mr. J. C. Ainsley's machine coming in the opposite direction ran down these pedestrians who could not be seen.

The injured parties were brought to Dr. Merrill's office where immediate assistance could be given. Mr. Ainsley later took Mr. Rainey to the County hospital, where according to latest reports he is resting comfortably and his chances for recovery are good.

Save Money

Just now, during the busy fruit season, an hour of almost any one's time is worth at least 40c. One hundred people wasting a half-hour in shopping each day would mean a total daily time-loss of $20.

Don't do your shopping in that wasteful way. Give us your order—telephone it, or hand it in written on a slip of paper—any way to get it to us. You don't wait. We put up the goods while you are doing something else. And the order is delivered to your home.

That is the meaning of delivery service. It is a money saving proposition for you.

By the way, have you tried that delicious new IXL product, that Macaroni Sauce? Eleven fine flavors blended in a base of tomato. The result is a keen, spicy sauce, an epicurean delight. Called Macaroni Sauce, but equally good for rice and many other things.

Add a can to your next grocery order. Ten cents each.

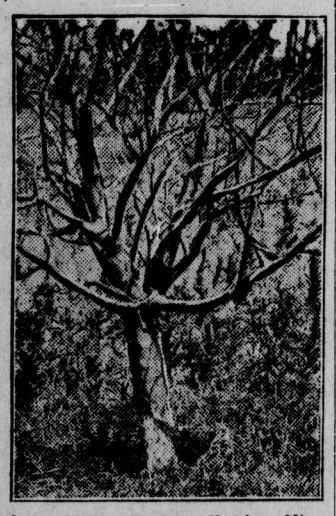
SAVING GNAWED FRUIT TREES

Serious Injuries by Mice or Rabbits Can Be Remedied by Bridge Grafting—How to Work.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If fruit trees have been seriously injured by mice or rabbits eating the bark and sapwood at the surface of the ground, they can be saved by bridge grafting. First trim off the gnawed parts of the bark with a sharp knife leaving the edges smooth. Then take from the tree a twig of last summer's growth about as thick as a lead pencil and long enough to extend an inch and one-half above and below the gnawed part. Both above and below the gnawed part cut out a strip of bark an inch and one-half long and as wide as the twig or graft is thick. Trim both ends of the graft on the same side by paring it down to about half its thickness for a length of about two inches and then fit the prepared ends into the bark cuts above and below the injury.



Apple Tree Killed by Meadow Mice.

Fasten each end of the graft to the tree by driving in a very fine tack or brad not much thicker than a pin. Cover the ends of the graft and all cut surfaces with grafting wax. A union between the graft and tree will then take place and thus the gnawed part will be bridged over. In very bad cases of injury it may be necessary to fasten the lower end of the graft into one of the tree roots. Place a graft every 2 inches across the injured part.

PLANTING FRUITS IN NORTH

Of Much Importance That They Be Set Out While Plants Are in Dormant State.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the North and wherever the winter conditions are severe on plant life, either from low temperatures, driving winds or other causes, fruits are usually planted in the spring as early as the soil can be put in suitable condition. It is important that they be set out while the plants are dormant and before the buds have started.

CALL APPLE KING OF FRUIT

Estimated Value of $230,000,000 Placed on Crop by Department of Agriculture.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The apple is the king of fruits in value of crop as well as in the estimation of apple lovers, according to information gathered by the United States department of agriculture. For the apple crop of 1918 a value of $230,000,000 has been estimated, or nearly three-eighths of the value of all fruits.

VEGETABLES IN AN ORCHARD

Crops May Be Planted Between Trees While They Are Small and Do Not Shade Ground.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Vegetables can be grown between the trees in the home orchard, while the latter are small and do not shade the ground very much. Some of the early maturing vegetables may even be grown between the rows of strawberries during their first season.

DOUGHBOYS' THREE DAYS OFF IN NEUWIED IS ONE RIOT OF JOY

Smiles of Six Jolly American Girls and Ice Cream and Cake Galore Give Homesick Soldiers New Spirit to Keep the "Wacht am Rhein"—Visit Points of Interest and Are Royally Entertained.

By WILBUR FORREST.
(In the New York Tribune.)

Neuwied, Germany.—In many ways the American soldier, forced to maintain a "Wacht am Rhein" here in Germany is to be envied by those who have hurried back through the French winter months to home and fireside. The homegoers are possibly well pleased with their lot, but the "stay-abroads" are beginning to come into their own.

The American army and the Y. M. C. A. have combined into a harmonious partnership here at Neuwied-on-the-Rhine, which gives full compensation for enforced foreign service. It is called the Third Corps Recreation Center and is today operating full blast for the benefit of morale of some 85,000 of Uncle Sam's boys composing the Third American army corps, commanded by Major General Hines.

Eleven hundred from the First, Second and Thirty-second divisions come from their prescribed villages and towns of the occupied area into Neuwied every three days to rest, recreate and see the sights of the Rhine.

"The Third Corps Recreation Center, made possible by the folks at home through the Y. M. C. A.," is the slogan you may read in Neuwied today. And the doughboys are beginning to appreciate it and talk about it.

American army engineers have built the largest Y. M. C. A. club and recreation hall in Europe—the home of the recreating doughboy, in which he neither worries about reveille nor saluting. It is here that he first goes when he arrives from the area, and he is told to make himself comfortable by one or all of six comely American girls who have come from home to cater to John Doughboy and he alone, natty young officers notwithstanding.

The boys are invited to make themselves "right at home" and they lose no time in doing so.

How the Idea Works.

Follow Mr. John Doughboy through a three-day leave in the Neuwied Recreation Center. He packs up his blankets, towels, toothbrush and safety razor and departs from the scene of duty. He arrives in Neuwied by various routes—1,100 of him—and is greeted by a brass band at the railway station. A guide conducts him to the big recreation hall and turns him loose among potted palms, and deep upholstered easy chairs, divans and "lazy-backs" set tastily in a great room flanked on two sides by big red brick fire-places, in which cheery log fires are burning. He is assigned a place in a double-deck bunk and he throws his blankets aboard and returns to the big room to loaf.

Perhaps he sits down at a table and writes a line or two to the folks back home. Then he meets a friend and plays a game of billiards or pool on the overhanging balcony at one end of the room. Or he just lolls around on those easy chairs and sofas until lunch time.

Then some one suggests that he stroll down to "Uncle Sam's Hotel"—the place that used to be the "Hohenzollern house." Here the Uncle Sam-Y. M. C. A. combination serves a meal for him and his 1,099 companions that he has never seen equaled in the A. E. F.

Crockery Suffers Sadly.

This "crockery," as the doughboys call it, is in reality an excellent grade or German china, and as Sergeant J. W. Seidenfelt, "commander in chief" of Uncle Sam's hotel, explained, breakages at the hands of some scores of German waitresses run up to 1 per cent a meal, or nearly 100 per cent a month. But it is Uncle Sam's party, and the boys enjoy it.

Sergeant Seidenfelt was head waiter at a hotel in Cleveland when Uncle Sam drafted him. His home, however, is Hartford, Conn., and he never dreamed the armistice would bring lage of Rheims with well-preserved hith here to run "the biggest army hotel in Germany," where nearly 800 doughboys can "sit" simultaneously at a single meal and 1,600 if necessary, drop in at two sittings for any meal of the day.

From the hotel the recreating soldier wanders back to the recreation hall, which now becomes his principal point of orientation. Here he chats with American girls who make him feel at home and point out the afternoon's entertainment. There is "Uncle Sam's theater," a pretentious German playhouse, with a good bill showing at two o'clock and again at seven. There is the Mittelstrasse theater—continuous movies both afternoon and evening—and when all this does not appeal there are athletics of almost every character on a nearby field. From 3:30 to 4:30 there is music and tea or chocolate and cakes in the recreation hall, and from that time onward there are music and games inside or outside, winding up with ice cream and cake at 9 p. m.

Thus ends in brief outline the first of a three-day leave for the "stay-abroads" here in Neuwied. In addition there is a large swimming pool and plenty of baths for those who wish to take the time.

Saloons Lack Popularity.

There are open saloons in Neuwied. Soldiers are not barred from drinking and the saloons are open until 10 p. m. There is also here an ice cream, cake and pie factory running full blast for the exclusive benefit of American soldiers.

Neuwied's open saloons are not patronized much by American soldiers. Drunkenness has been practically nil, and the conduct generally of the 30,000 is one of the greatest tributes to American youth and the wholesome influence of fine young American women, who have inspired with their surroundings, association and conversation and general wholesomeness a desire to make the periodical three-day leave granted the American soldier in Neuwied a memory that leaves nothing but clean thought in the minds of the boys.

The second day of John Doughboy's three-day leave begins just after breakfast at "Uncle Sam's Hotel"—from 7:30 to 9 a. m.—with a steamboat excursion up the Rhine. It ends with a grand costume ball in the evening at the recreation hall. The river excursion, with plenty of food, music and refreshments aboard, begins with especial attention first called through a megaphone to the village of Weissenthurm, just across the river, the point where the French General Hoche crossed the Rhine on April 18, 1797. Immediately behind Neuwied, as the steamboat takes the Rhine mid-channel, loom forth the Krupp gun works. Soon the island Urmitz Worth, on which the Romans once camped during the period when bronze was first used by these ancients, appears. Next comes Engers, a Rhine village of 3,000 people, the home of a famous Prussian military school. Then Bendorf, a manufacturing city of 5,000 people, and soon the giant fortress of Ehrenbreitstein looms up around a bend in the river.

The bally-hoo man explains that "once upon a time," the sheer rock cliffs, which rise abruptly from the water, supported a Roman fortress. As he remarks that the French captured Ehrenbreitstein in 1799 some doughboy remarks "some job." Looking across the river they see Coblenz.

The boat passes up the river through the Coblenz pontoon bridge to Oberlahnstein, scene of thirteenth century ruins, and glides below Stolzenfels castle at Capellen, built in 1252, destroyed by the French in 1833, rebuilt by King Frederick Wilhelm IV, and owned up to November 11, 1911, by the ex-kaiser. Again upstream is the very ancient and picturesque vilfortifications 700 years old. Braubach, a town first mentioned just 1197 years ago, and Maksburg castle, the most imposing castle on the Rhine peaks, are next.

Past Bornhofen, a village of legend and pilgrimage; Salzig, a small town, surrounded by a forest of cherry trees; Ehrenthal, of lead mine fame; Wellmich, with its famous Gothic church; St. Goar, a village of 1,600 inhabitants, containing a church built in 558 by Frankish kings, and eventually the famous Lorelei is reached, that imposing rock overhanging treacherous Rhine rapids, on which the beautiful woman of legend used to sit enshrouded in a veil of mist, sometimes combing her golden hair, and, more often, enticing lovelorn Rhine sailors onto the rocks as they drew near to hear the strains of her golden harp.

Passing many other points of interest, the doughboy is shown the little church at Clemenscapelle marking the spot where Kaiser Rudolph von Hapsburg beheaded 30 robber knights in 1282. And there is usually doughboy comment, "Some kaiser." Finally, he passes the Mouse Tower, built on an island, and reaches Bingen-on-the-Rhine, that famous Roman town said to have been built by Drusus thirteen years before Christ. A trip beyond Bingen to Rudesheim and the excursion boat turns its prow homeward, racing with the swift Rhine current back to Neuwied.

More Ice Cream and Cake.

There still remains time for Uncle Sam's theater and the movies before supper time at Uncle Sam's hotel, where ice cream and cake wind up the evening repast. Then back to the recreation hall for the big dance. Ice cream and cake comes again at 9:30 p. m.

The third and last day there are all the features of the first and second and a boat trip down the Rhine toward Cologne for those who care to go. Historical sightseeing is repeated, including the beautiful city of Bonn, seat of Germany's most famous university and once home of Beethoven. Then back up the river to entertainment, ice cream and cake, athletics, sports, games and recreation, winding up with the grand tug-of-war in Recreation hall between picked teams. Then more ice cream and cake and to bed, ready for duty again back somewhere in the Coblenz bridgehead.

Clean recreation has beaten the German open saloons in Neuwied, and in addition to that the ice cream, pie and cake factory, now producing 100 gallons of cream and 300 cakes of various kinds each day, soon will double its present output.

Indian Leaves War Dress to Museum

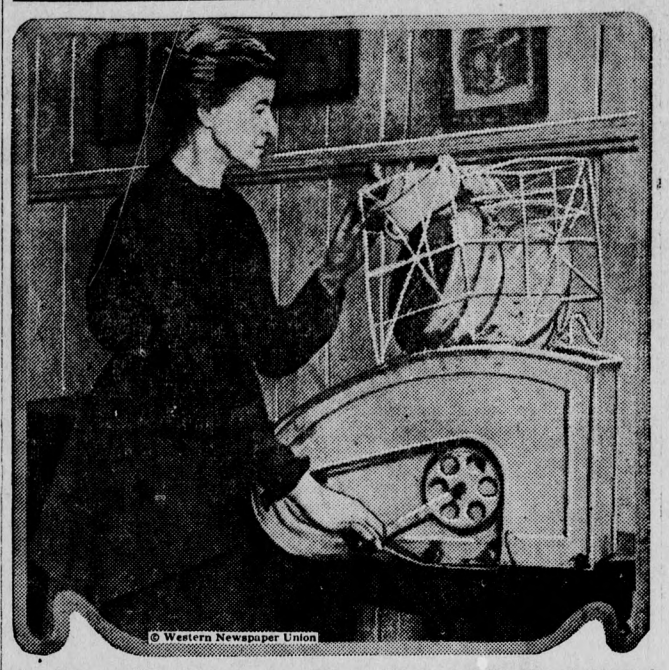
New York.—The American Museum of Natural History has recently received as a bequest the complete Indian dress costume of Chief Don White Eagle, a Cheyenne Indian, who died in France while serving as a soldier in the United States army. Chief White Eagle, who was twenty-nine, served with the infantry forces. He was one of four brothers fighting in France. He was a skilled sharpshooter and was commended by his general for bravery. He died October 21, 1918, of pneumonia.

The costume consists of a large feather war bonnet, fringed shirt and leggings, moccasins, pipe bag and feather-trimmed standard. All the feather work was done by White Eagle himself. It was last worn during the third Liberty Loan drive when White Eagle appeared as a speaker.

Hen's Vacation.

Bangor, Me.—A Bangor man who goes to church declares without blinking that he has a hen, three years old, part Plymouth Rock, part Angone, that has laid an egg every day for the last year with the exception of two weeks, when she had a vacation with full pay; that to make up for lost time said hen recently has been laying two eggs on some days, and that every morning she crows just like a rooster.

Machine Helps Solve the Servant Problem



This machine which can be called the "Mechanical Maid," was invented in England to assist housewives in overcoming the servant shortage. Dishes sufficient for a three-course service for five persons can be washed up in this machine in a few moments. Photo shows dishes being put into machine.

Intended for the Germans

Deadliest Poison Ever Known Was Made in the U. S.

Guarded night and day and far out of human reach on a pedestal at the interior department exposition in Washington, D. C., is a tiny vial. It contains a specimen of the deadliest poison ever known. It is "Lewisite," product of an American scientist. It is what Germany escaped by signing the armistice before all the resources of the United States were turned on her.

Ten airplanes carrying "Lewisite" would have wiped out every vestige of life—human, animal and vegetable, in Berlin. A single day's output would snuff out the 4,000,000 lives on Manhattan island. A single drop poured in the palm of the hand would penetrate to the blood, reach the heart and kill the victim in great agony.

What was coming to Germany may be imagined by the fact that when the armistice was signed it was being manufactured at the rate of ten tons a day. Three thousand tons of this most terrible instrument ever conceived for killing would have been ready for business on the American front in France on March 1.

"Lewisite" is another of the big secrets of the war just leaking out. It was developed in the bureau of mines by Prof. W. Lee Lewis of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., who took a commission as a captain in the army. It was manufactured in a specially built plant near Cleveland, called the "mouse trap," because every workman who entered the stockade went under an agreement not to leave the 11-acre space until the war was won.

Red Cross Issues Warning Against Using of Name and Emblem in Various Schemes

The American Red Cross has issued a warning to the public against persons who are using the Red Cross name and emblem for commercial purposes of various sorts. Any commercial enterprise that is seeking to push its business under the Red Cross name is doing so without the consent of the national and divisional headquarters of the organization. The provisions of its charter prohibit the use of the Red Cross name or emblem for commercial purposes. Some of the enterprises named by the Red Cross as unauthorized are the selling of trinkets and war pictures by discharged and wounded soldiers with the statement that a part of the profits of the sales will be given to the Red Cross, and the offering for sale of certificates to the families of the men in the service, representing that by such purchase the family may obtain the speedy discharge of their soldiers and representing that the proceeds of the sale of these certificates will result in benefit for the Red Cross.

BRIEF AND BREEZY

Praise a man and he'll not call you a liar.

The average woman finds good looks an expensive habit.

The man who lacks polish doesn't always lack humanity.

The crab may not be as good eating as the lobster, but he'll do in a pinch.

The shorter the ice crop is in the winter the longer the bill is in the summer.

Community Drier Will Help Save Much Perishable Food; Co-Operation Is Suggested

Cities or villages confronted with the question of saving surplus perishable crops from home and school gardens this season may well consider the construction and operation of a community drier, according to E. L. Kirkpatrick of the Colorado Agricultural college, who says:

"Practically all vegetables, as well as fruits, may be dried or dehydrated and kept in paper bags or paper cartons until needed for use this fall or winter.

"The cost of a satisfactory fan-equipped drier with a capacity of from 500 to 1,000 pounds of raw produce per day will be between $250 and $400. The best general-purpose plant is of the combined tunnel and cabinet type, fitted with an exhaust fan at one end and a box heating stove at the other. Pipe from the stove should run below the set of trays or tills throughout the full length of the drier.

"Before undertaking the building of a plant, each community should make a thorough survey of the amount of perishable crops available, decide on a satisfactory building for housing the outfit and formulate a business plan of operation throughout the season."

JUST FOR FUN

Getting Nowhere.

"How long has young Dubson been calling on Miss Peache?"

"I can't give you the exact number of nights, but I understand he has heard the family's stock of phonograph records three times over."

"Umph! If she's still playing the phonograph he isn't making much progress."

Has No Class.

"Miss Plain isn't a society girl, is she?" asked Mrs. Outotown.

"Oh, my, no," replied Miss Guy. "In fact, she is a very common person. She actually listens to the music when she goes to the opera."

Joyous Occasion.

"A directors' meeting, eh?"

"Yes."

"A rather dull affair, I presume?"

"No. A large dividend was declared. When there's a juicy 'melon' to cut, if there's any humor in a director's system it comes out."

Subject Exhausted.

"Well, why don't you say something?" asked the angry woman after her long harangue.

"My dear," replied her husband, meekly, "nothing remains to be said."

Indisposed.

"Hubby, I'm ill today."

"I could get my sister to come and nurse you."

"Thanks, but I don't feel well enough to entertain her."

Cause for Gratitude.

He (during the quarrel)—You must think I'm as big a fool as I look.

She—I think that if you aren't you have a great deal to be thankful for.

PAGEANT

Blue-gray dawn and shadows flee,
Like frightened children, through the mist,
Before the marchers of the morn,
In mauve and amethyst.

Artillery along the clouds
Spurts rainbow streams on copse and lawn,
As day, the general, signals for
The red barrage of dawn.

Behind a curtain-sky of fire,
That jumbled flood of turquoise sea,
The sunbeams swoop, like eagles, down
Dawn's glittering infantry.

Then clash the arms of day and night;
But night's redoubts are weak and old,
And where day's victors sweep the field
They lose a shower of gold.

Yet violets and daffodils,
And little blades of sleepy grass,
With me, of all life's living things,
Beheld this pageant pass.

Then, standing hushed among the flowers,
While earth drinks deep the wine of spring,
I hear the rivers raise glad voice,
The green-robed valleys sing.
—J. Corson Miller in New York Times.

Notorious.

This is how a high school girl recently parsed the sentence "He kissed me":

"'He,'" she began, with a fond lingering over the word that brought the crimson to her cheeks, "is a pronoun, third person, singular number, masculine gender, a gentleman, and pretty well-off, universally considered a good catch. 'Kissed' is a verb, transitive, indicative mood, indicating affection, first and third persons, plural number, and governed by circumstances. 'Me'—oh, well, everybody knows me!" And she sat down.

Tonic or Receptacle?

"Do you know anything that's good for falling hair?"

"Before or after, sir?"

"Before or after what?"

"Before or after it had fallen?"

Some Discomfort Averted.

"It is a good thing we cut off our queues," said the Chinese official.

"Why?"

"We cannot tear our hair over the Paris conference."

STOP! CALOMEL IS QUICKSILVER

It's mercury! Attacks the bones, salivates and makes you sick.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

OF LITTLE THINGS

A many things there be that lure;
Aye, many little things there be.
The fern-rimmed forest fountain pure,
The dancing, frail ephemerae;

The lunar moth's first stirrings when
It bursts from out its rough cocoon;
The wood thrush fluting from the glen
In early watches of the moon;

The moss rose as it bursts its sheath;
The flame breast of the oriole;
Words that, like subtle attar, breathe
A something fragrant from the soul;

The tender touch of loving hands;
The arm that clasps, the lip that clings;
Ah, is it strange my heart expands
At the sweet lure of little things!
—Clinton Scollard, in New York Sun.

Thrifty Lad.

The other day a boy went to the provision store and asked for "half a dozen black hen eggs."

The grocer laughed. "Eggs from a black hen!" he said. "How can you tell them, my little man?"

"I can. My mother told me how."

"Well, here you are. Let me see you pick them from the crate."

The boy carefully selected the six biggest eggs he could find, put down the money on the counter, and said: "These are black hen eggs I have taken."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

What She Wanted.

Mrs. Newrich (in store)—I want a piece of music for my little girl who is learning to play the piano.

Clerk—Yes, madam; here is "Twilight," for 25 cents. How would that suit?

Mrs. Newrich—Oh, she's further advanced than that. Why, last week she played a piece that cost 50 cents. Have you got something for about a dollar?

New Game.

"We're going to have a grab-bag at our sociable," said the cheery woman to Mr. Growcher.

"You mean one of those things where everybody reaches in and tries to help himself to the best of it?"

"Something like that. Only I should like a more modern and elegant name for it!"

"Well, why don't you call it 'league of nations'?"

Something Durable.

Wife—John, the nursery needs to be done over again. What would you suggest for the walls?

Hub—Corrugated iron.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.—Adv.

BOY SCOUTS

SCOUTS ARE NOT FOR SALE

Another letter received at national headquarters suggests a criticism. This letter states:

"There is hardly a week that some business house does not have some plan to offer for using our organization to sell goods."

It is an unfortunate fact that so many men have failed to understand that the ideal of service wrought into the boy scout movement is entirely free of the spirit of gain.

The scout good turn which takes on so many forms and has even risen to the high plane of national service in the time of war cannot be bought. It is not devised to help increase the gains of any person or business or institution. It is helpfulness outside of the field of commercialism.

It is true that scouts can work for money. But it is equally true that neither a scout nor a troop should be worked for money. Let no individual and no concern try to break down that fine distinction.

If a boy scout does any one of the many honorable things a boy can do for business concerns and for others to earn money, he does it as a boy, not as a boy scout.

SEA SCOUTS IN TRAINING.

Youngsters learning the sailor stuff on rigging on the shore.

BOY SCOUTS TO FEED BIRDS.

Twenty-eight troops of boy scouts were assigned in Minneapolis by L. S. Dale, scout executive, to take care of the bird-feeding stations in 14 parks.

"Feeding of birds usually should only be done after storms or during severe weather," says Mr. Dale. "The idea is to keep the birds with us, but not to overfeed them. During mild weather they are generally able to make their own living, but this has been an exceptional season, and the natural food supply for birds has about been exhausted.

"There are 1,800 boy scouts in the city, and every one of them is interested in the protection of birds. It is hoped that the scouts will open the eyes of the public generally to the necessity of co-operation in affording this protection to bird life in our parks."

MARK ROOSEVELT TREES.

The city parks of Los Angeles will in the future bear living testimony to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt in the form of trees to be furnished and planted by troops of boy scouts. These trees will be 36 in number.

The first 36 troops (there are 129 troops under the Los Angeles scout council) to sign up at headquarters will each have the honor of planting an oak tree, at the foot of which will be placed a bronze tablet inscribed as follows: "Planted Arbor day, 1919, by Troop No. ——, Los Angeles Boy Scouts of America, in honor of Theodore Roosevelt."

SOME STUNTS BY THE SCOUTS.

Wheeling, W. Va., has approximately 150 scouts who successfully cultivated war gardens. One-fifth of the total subscriptions for Liberty bonds in Ohio county, were secured by scouts. Scouts distributed 7,500 copies of the president's Flag day address; were active in the book drive and found over 2,400 black walnut trees and two carloads of clothing for the Belgian relief. During the influenza epidemic scouts worked with the Red Cross.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

COMING BACK

Darling, I am coming back,
Silver threads among the black;
Now that peace in Europe nears,
I'll be home in seven years.

I'll drop in on you some night,
With my whiskers long and white.
Yes, the war is over, dear,
And we're going home, I hear,
Home again with you once more,
Say by nineteen twenty-four.

Once I thought by now I'd be
Sailing back across the sea,
Back to where you sit and pine,
But I'm stuck here on the Rhine.

You can hear the gang all curse,
War is hell—but peace is worse.
When the next war comes around,
In the front lines I'll be found.
I'll rush in again, pell mell,
Yes, I will—like hell, like hell.

Taste and Imagination.

Taste is merely a matter of imagination, says scientists, and it is asserted that tests have been made where chopped onions had been called raw potatoes, but this was when the smelling apparatus was out of commission. People do not know what tastes are.

COMPLAINT that California does not put the proper flavor in her deciduous fruits does not take into account the fact that, as these products are raised here chiefly for the Eastern market, varieties must be grown that will stand long-distance shipment. Flavor and handling qualities do not always go together. As a matter of fact, California can and does grow peaches and strawberries equal, if not superior, in flavor to the best grown elsewhere, but it is necessarily the shipping varieties that are most often fouud in the markets. It is not fair to compare a peach that has had to travel two or three thousand miles with a memory of one selected and eaten in an orchard. But at that California fresh fruits seem to hold the Eastern market fairly well.—Ex.

SAFETY FIRST! Altho we have been taught from childhood to keep to the right, there is one particular case in which the right side is decidedly wrong. When walking or riding a bicycle on the highway always keep to your left side of the road thereby having all vehicles coming toward you on your side of the road in front where you may see them at all times. By that custom you may avoid an accident similar to that which occured Tuesday evening.

HELP YOURSELF

More than 150 years ago Benjamin Franklin wrote: "Keep your shop and it will keep you." The stamp of greatness is on Franklin's philosophy because it was not alone of his time; it holds for all time.

Our ways have changed a bit in the economic life of this republic which the great Franklin helped to build. No longer may every man be his own shopkeeper. Most of us help keep some other fellow's shop and a certain element among the assistant shop keepers have become restless because they have no shop themselves and call themselves I. W. W., Bolsheviks, and other names.

Nevertheless Franklin's homely saying is as true today and as easy to comply with as it was the day he uttered it. The United States government provides the way.

War Savings and Thrift Stamps, conceived as a war measure and now backed by the government as a permanent policy, give every man, woman and child in America the chance to keep shop. Each person is allowed to put $1000 a year into the business—the business of American government. The business guarantees 4 per cent per annum compounded quarterly. It is the biggest business in the world. One can invest as low as 25 cents.

The wonderful thing about it is that the investor helps his country as well as himself.

Locals and Personals

Mrs. Ida Thomas returned Tuesday from a sojourn at Pacific Grove.

Mr. Nicholas Dunphy and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Langner of San Francisco, and Mr. Fred Roselind of Vallejo, were guests at the R. E. Dunphy home Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Ash will go to San Leandro Saturday where Mr. Ash will read the marriage ceremony for an old friend. They will return home Monday.

Dr. I. N. Ratchford and wife of the U. S. N. at Goat Island were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Merrill Friday and Saturday. The two doctors were "pals in the service."

Mrs. C. E. De Selle suffered a dislocation of her shoulder as the result of a fall from the runboard of the auto Tuesday evening. She is resting quite comfortably at last report.

It certainly does seem home-like and natural to see "Dad" Atkinson and his family back in their local church circles but rather unusual to see him sitting in the pews after his thirteen years in the pulpit.

Miss Dorothea Smith expects to leave Paris for "home, sweet home" about August 1st. She has been with the "Y" in library work at Paris since going overseas but is now in regular "Y" work again. She will resume her position in Chico Normal library this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Josef Halamicek went to Marshalltown, Iowa, last week to visit their son, Camile, and family. Camile has a school of music there and is over run with pupils and his father will help him with his classes for a time. Mr. Halamicek will be greatly missed in musical circles in this part of the state and we hope for an early return to our midst.

A number of the "Y" secretaries who have been and are serving with the U. S. fighters held an informal luncheon in San Jose Tuesday evening. The meeting was called by Secretary Atkinson for the purpose of discussing plans, ways and means for future service to the young men. As the result some definite work may be shortly begun to cover the County with "Young Men" as the slogan.

Taylor--Lancaster

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lancaster yesterday afternoon occurred the marriage of their son, Augustus J. Lancaster and Marie Antoinette Taylor, Rev. H. L. Preston officiating. Mr. Lancaster has a position at Mare Island and made a hurried call here stopping just long enough to say, "I will."

Looking Into the Future.

An eminent engineer has predicted that in time to come the rivers of the United States will no longer flow as they do today. Each important stream will be merely a series of sluggish lakes, with electric power stations in between. All the little streams will be wiped out, and their waters combined into the great ones that are to supply the heat, light and power of the future.

Sleep, the Restorer.

"Early to bed, early to rise" is a splendid maxim for the nervous patient to follow, for sleep is undoubtedly the greatest health restorer in the world. Be sure that there is plenty of good fresh air in the bedroom, and often a hot bath taken before retiring will relax tense nerves to such an extent that sleep comes very readily.

C. Berry Transferred

Chas. Berry has been appointed station agent for the S. P. at Santa Clara. Mr. Berry completed his 33rd year of faithful service as local agent for that company last April and is well deserving of this advancement.

At his new station he will have six assistants and a great deal of the extra work he did here will fall nn other men.

Mr. Berry expects to get his relief at this point any day and will at once assume the duties at Santa Clara. He will continue to live here for a time.

It will hardly seem natural at the station with Charlie gone, but his friends are glad for his boost and wish him well.

Go Get 'Em

During the recent cannery fire, several responsible parties ran over the fire hose on Campbell avenue. Such a deliberate act is criminal on the face of it and the fire company intends to make the most of it. Had the hose been cut by the wheels the California Canneries Co. plant would now be a heap of ruins because, as it was, the hose was barely long enough and with the loss of one section would have been practically worthless. Speaking of the fire, we are reminded of the commendation we gave the commissioners at the time they bought the new Chemical Engine and hose and we again express our thanks for their far sighted move, for the equipment saved many times its cost in its last performance.
